Monroe, Union

Rev. Stacy Cavanaugh

Each week we invite you to pray for one of our congregations. JKP is spread out over three states which means many of our members probably have not seen these places in person. By providing pictures and narrative information we can know one another better and celebrate our unity by holding one another up in prayer. Please incorporate these churches and leaders in your weekly prayers.

This week we lift up Union Presbyterian Church of Monroe, WI and their Pastor, the Rev. Stacy Cavanaugh. Monroe sits in the heart of Cheese country about 40 miles to the south of Madison in JKP Region 4. Slightly more than 100 people call Union PC home and make up a vibrant community of people who welcome one and all to their worship and fellowship. Like all our communities many of UPC's programs and activities have been scaled back or set aside during the Pandemic. Their impressive music program has included a large Chancel Choir and a group of African drummers who bring a new and delightful aspect to worship in a traditional setting. The Church has been supportive of community activities such as the ecumenical service at Cheese Days. They have also participated in a program called Family Promise in which they hosted homeless families in their building four times a year. Pastor Stacy brings a wealth of experience both in the pulpit and in work with Presbytery. She serves as Co-Moderator of JKP's Committee on Ministry. Stacy's ability and energy have been a great addition to JKP. Please keep this congregation and their Pastor Stacy in your prayers.
